

No Regrets {Jeff Henderson}

INTRODUCTION

Most of the time when we think about our regrets we think about things that we said or things that we did that we wish we could take back. Most of us have no shortage of these. However, there is also another category of regrets that we all share. These regrets stem not from actions, but from inaction. You see, when we fail to seize the right moments in life, these lost opportunities often show up in our future in the form of regrets.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Looking back on your life, has there ever been an opportunity that you wished you would have seized, but you watched it slip by?
2. Read John 17:20-21. Jesus gives us insight in his prayer on how to live life without regrets. Why is it important that we have a balanced focus on intimacy with God (“May they also be in us”), community with insiders (“that all of them may be one”), and influence with outsiders (“that the world may believe”)?
3. What is regretful about Christian communities that neglect influence with outsiders?
4. What are the opportunities that Buckhead Church currently has to leverage its potential?
5. What role could you play in helping Buckhead church realize its potential? Is there an area that you could volunteer in?
6. Why is volunteering at a church a shrewd investment?

7. Have you ever locked arms with others in a venture that had no possibility of success if God didn't show up? What was that experience like?

THINK ABOUT IT

Imagine in the future that Buckhead Church comes to an end. What would it take to have no regrets when we look back on its journey?

CHANGING YOUR MIND

“My prayer is not for them alone. I pray also for those who will believe in me through their message, that all of them may be one, Father, just as you are in me and I am in you. May they also be in us so that the world may believe that you have sent me.” John 17:20-21
