

one, not everyone

One, Not Everyone {Andy Stanley}

INTRODUCTION

If I let you do it, I have to let everyone do it.

If I gave this to you, I'd have to give this to everyone.

You may have grown up hearing this from your teachers, parents, coaches. They tried to be fair. But is more important to be fair . . . or to do good?

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. What do you consider the most pressing need in the world?
2. Are there times when you have felt like you could conquer the world's problems? Are there times when you have felt overwhelmed to do anything about them?
3. Why is it tempting to turn off the news, stop listening, and shutting off all your channels of awareness to what's happening in the world?
4. Read Galatians 6:9-10. What do you consider is the most important part of those verses?
5. Andy suggests, "Do for one what you wish you could do for everyone." Is it more important to be fair or to be engaged in doing good?
6. What is one outlet in your life where you can "do, give, and serve" deeply rather than widely?

MOVING FORWARD

Do for one what you wish you could do for everyone. Because if we all did for one what we wish we could do for everyone, it might change the world. But certainly, it would change one person's world. It may even change your world.

CHANGING YOUR MIND

Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers.
